

IOWA POLITICAL STORM CENTER

Fight for Control of Republican Party in the State Now of National Interest.

PRESTIGE OF CUMMINS INVOLVED IN STRUGGLE

Whether Progressives or Regulars Will Be Victors, Is Yet Doubtful.

By Associated Press.
DES MOINES, Ia., June 4.—This state, the immediate center of the nation's interest in Republican politics, refused to close the primary campaign with tonight's meeting and will continue it Monday.

State officers and representatives in congress will be nominated. Broadly speaking, the issue in the Republican ranks is the present Republican administration.

Outside the broad line of demarcation between the factions, there are, however, factional differences so complex that even veteran observers like Lafayette Young admit their inability to solve the situation.

All agree the prestige of Senator Cummins is involved in the fight between Gov. B. F. Carroll and Warren Garst for the gubernatorial nomination. Cummins is said to have been forced to support Garst by the "stand pat" maneuver of placing the present governor under the banner of the national administration. The formation of a Taft club in support of Carroll and the principal play in this development. Thus the renomination of the governor will be hailed, if it takes place, by the so-called reactionaries as a slap at Cummins. As to his own thoughts on the matter, the governor has said little, save that he does not purpose to be dictated to by Cummins and Dooliver.

Congressional Situation.
On congressional nominations, the contests exciting greatest interest are in the First, Seventh and Ninth districts, in the last named greatest of all.

In the First district, Congressman Charles A. Kennedy, at Montrose, is being subjected to the assaults of those who do not approve of his so-called "stand pat" record. The "progressive" candidate is Smith W. Brokhardt, Judge S. F. Prouty, for the fourth time, is seeking to wrest the nomination from Representative John A. Hull in the Seventh district. At the primaries two years ago Hull won over Prouty by only forty votes, although Des Moines, the largest city of the state, is in the district.

In the Ninth, Congressman Walter L. Smith is being tried on his record as a staunch wheel horse of the regular organization at Washington. Smith was a member of the old Cannon rules committee. His opponent is H. W. Byers, the present attorney general of the state. In the Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Eighth and Eleventh districts, there are no contests among the Republicans.

Charles Grilk, candidate in the Second district, is said to be a progressive, but the "regulars" declined to oppose him when Congressman Dawson, the present incumbent, refused to seek renomination, and Congressman Pickett of the Third is regarded as a sort of conservative "progressive." Representative Haughey of the Fourth is another unopposed progressive. Representative Good, unopposed in the Fifth, is labeled by the progressives as "generally insurgent." Congressman Kendall, who stands without opposition in the Sixth, is also claimed by the conservative general of the party.

The present representative from the eighth district is William D. Jamieson, a Democrat. Mr. Jamieson refused to be a candidate again, and the honor is being sought by E. M. Townner, a "stand-patter," and John N. Darrah, a progressive. The candidates have eschewed oratory in the campaign in favor of a "gun show" canvass. In the tenth, Lewis H. Mayne has been selected to make the run against Congressman Woods, who stands on his record as an "insurgent."

There are Democratic contests in the first, second, third, seventh, eighth and ninth districts. No Democratic nominations will be made in the tenth and eleventh districts.

REFUSES TO LIE FOR REPUBLICAN PARTY

By Associated Press.
CRESTON, Ia., June 4.—Senator Cummins, in a vigorous speech at the courthouse this afternoon, reached the climax of the campaign of the Eighth district.

A FEELING OF SECURITY

You naturally feel secure when you know that the medicine you are about to take is absolutely pure and contains no harmful or habit producing drugs.

Such a medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

The same standard of purity, strength and excellence is maintained in every bottle of Swamp-Root.

Swamp-Root is scientifically compounded from vegetable herbs. It is not a stimulant and is taken in teaspoonful doses.

It is not recommended for everything. It is nature's great helper in relieving and overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

A sworn statement of purity is with every bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

If you need a medicine, you should have the best. If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you will find it on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, fifty-cents and one-dollar.

Send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle, free by mail—it will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling all about the kidneys. When writing, be sure and mention The Salt Lake Sunday Tribune.

he meant by it, he said: "No, by God, you can't go out at all. A friend had asked me to meet him. I was arranging to enter a new position. I was working for nothing Friday, and I did not go out. This morning I said to McMillin, 'You are not feeling right'; and he spoke about the keys. Then I said, 'What's the matter with you?' and he replied, 'Nothing, nothing.' I began to read the paper, and I never even thought that that was what it was. I say positively that I did not give out the statistics. I tried to keep away from him (McMillin), but I happened to meet him at the corner of Second and Main street."

This was about 5:30 o'clock Saturday evening. I knocked him down a couple of times, and then two street car conductors jumped in and knocked me down. I have a scar on my face as a result of the fight. McMillin, D. C., stating that McMillin, the supervisor of the census at Utah, accuses me of leaking, and I demand an investigation."

Mr. McMillin's Version.

With respect to the encounter with Myton, McMillin said: "I was on my way to the drug store on the corner to dispatch a registered letter, when Myton came out of the store. He had been lying for me."

"You d—n—," he said, and he waded into me, one, two, three—quick. He struck me four or five times, and we both went to the ground. I tried to get up, but he was on me. I could not, but Myton is a pretty heavy man, you know, and I have a couple of lovely bumps."

"Some man came between us and separated us, and Myton sneezed. 'Will you persecute Me?' he said. 'Well, I think I shall Monday. A man can't stand for that kind of business, you know. There may be some law under which I can reach him for interfering with a federal officer in the discharge of his duty, for was the time in the discharge of my official duty.'"

Mr. McMillin said also that if there was no such provision of law as he referred to, he would probably cause a complaint to be issued charging Myton with assault and battery."

"It's easily that," said McMillin.

by the responsibilities of being a husband," said he. "I don't mean that he loses any other joys of life in this aging process for the views of married men are more tolerant and sane than those of a bachelor. The bachelor is condemned as much as he is to be pitied. He is getting only half of the happiness in life. I used to think I would lead a happy care-free life, absolutely devoid of the responsibilities of domesticity, but that's when I was younger than I am now."

Young Mr. Roosevelt wore a natty gray suit when he visited the marriage license bureau this afternoon and toyed with a rattle cane. He was accompanied by Miss Alexander.

Needed a Guide.

Chief Scully, of the marriage bureau, knew of their coming in advance and had everything ready for them.

Fred A. Collins, private secretary to Collector Loeb, of the port of New York, acted as the guide of the couple.

"I'm afraid I could never have judged the reporters alone," said Mr. Roosevelt, as Mr. Collins led him through the portals of the bureau. Mr. Roosevelt described himself as "single," aged 22, a resident of Oyster Bay, and a manufacturer.

According to the license he is the son of Theodore Roosevelt and Edith Carew Roosevelt.

Miss Alexander was smartly attired. She wrote her name and gave her address as 2 West Forty-seventh street. She is only twenty years old.

Mr. Roosevelt. The number of the license is 13727, which, among policy players, is known as "the happy gig." It is supposed to be a very lucky set of numbers.

MARY CHAPMAN CATT, NOTED SUFFRAGIST, ILL.

By Leased Wire to The Tribune.
NEW YORK, June 4.—Grave doubts were expressed today regarding the recovery of Mrs. Mary Chapman Perry Catt, president of the Woman's Suffrage association, who underwent a serious operation at a private sanitarium here recently. She has been a semi-invalid for the last year or two. Recently she has been too ill to permit of her seeing any friends. Mrs. Catt has presided over the affairs of the association for many years. Last winter she founded the Woman's Suffrage party of Greater New York.

New Giant Liner.

By Leased Wire to The Tribune.
LONDON, June 4.—The Cunard company has announced its intention to invite bids for building a liner of 60,000 tons gross register. The purpose of the time will be comfort in travel rather than speed. The new ship will be able to carry more cargo than any vessel ever built and a quarter as many passengers as the largest. It will be used in the Atlantic service, and will never try for the record in crossing the ocean against such ships as the Lusitania and Mauretania.

SAFE AND SANE IN CELEBRATING FOURTH

Numerous Governors of Western States Give Countenance to the Movement.

By Leased Wire to The Tribune.
NEW YORK, June 4.—The agitation for a "safe and sane" Fourth of July is greater this year than it has ever been before. In some cities elections have been held to allow children to vote on the question. The Tribune representative has gathered of governors of several states views on this question. Their remarks are as follows:

Governor John P. Shafroth of Colorado: "I regard the movement for a 'safe and sane' Fourth of July as a most excellent one. The loss of life and limb from the celebration with fireworks has been so appalling as to make the people think seriously on this subject. That, together with detriment to sick and nervous people, should call for some relief. In my opinion, picnics, public speaking, theaters and other amusements should be the order of the day with public exhibitions of fireworks in the evening. Such observations of the day would undoubtedly result in the diminution of accidents, the stimulation of patriotic action and a more enjoyable time for all the people."

Would Not Bar Fireworks.

Governor A. Bernhardt of Minnesota: "While I firmly believe in a 'safe and sane' Fourth of July, I am not disposed to draw the line on harmless fireworks and the like to such an extent that the youngsters would have no means for celebrating. A movement is on foot in this state, however, to confine the celebration to safe lines and the governor is co-operating with the municipalities. There are no laws, however, against the sale of fireworks as such in this state."

Governor Benson of Oregon: "I believe that the American people should take steps to bring about a 'safe and sane' celebration of Independence day. The patriots of old who signed the Declaration of Independence and fought and died that this country might be free, did not have in mind the character of celebrations that have been witnessed annually, especially those seen in larger cities. I am a firm believer in all forms of celebration on Independence day and would not abolish any of our time-honored customs, but the time has come for drastic action against the firecracker, the toy pistol and the tin horn. These articles are not the proper agencies of patriotism and many lives are lost annually because of their indiscriminate and improper use. But the solution of the whole question lies in the abolishment of the firecracker, the toy pistol and the tin horn and the substitution of some safer method of demonstrating patriotism."

Scene of Other Crime.

In the same barn where this attack occurred another young woman, Helen Wilson of Brooklyn, was attacked last Wednesday. She was not tortured and beaten, however, and the police did not manifest much interest in her case. They became tremendously active in Miss Kraychka's case, and made an arrest a few hours after they had visited her in the hospital. The prisoner, James Murdock, admitted that he was in the barn, and that he knew that men in the barn had a woman there, but he denied taking part in the attack. He was taken before the girl in the hospital, and she recognized in him a man who had not only looked on her torture, but had robbed her of $99 and a gold watch and chain. Murdock was locked up on a technical charge.

MACK IS NOT CERTAIN AS TO CANDIDATES

By Leased Wire to The Tribune.
NEW YORK, June 4.—"All Democratic candidates look alike to me just now," said Norman E. Mack, chairman of the national Democratic committee, at the Hoffman house today.

Mr. Mack had just been asked to comment on the announcement of ex-Governor Folk of Missouri.

"Mr. Folk is a good man, and if he can get the backing of his state he can undoubtedly command a large number of votes in the next national convention," said Mr. Mack. "We shall not lack candidates." Colonel Bryan will not be a candidate for the presidency in 1912, but he is comparatively young, and he may be a candidate in 1916 or 1920."

"Being an American, my views were a little different from a foreign woman, perhaps. While the honors were not unexpected, I did not anticipate so many. To an European woman they must have been taken somewhat as a matter of course. To me it was a grand panorama, just like a description of some of the scenes in olden days. There was not a thing to mar the pleasure of the trip at any place or any time. The kings and queens to whom I was introduced were the most delightful people imaginable. Queen Alexandra is a splendid woman. It is no wonder the English people love her so much. She is a woman of beautiful character. In her affliction she is endeared even closer to the hearts of the people."

"While I have been so grandly treated everywhere, I still long for home, and I must confess I have secretly counted the days. The gorgeousness of Europe cannot compare with the joys of an American home. I shall be very happy when I see the Statue of Liberty looming out of the sky line of New York."

The Roosevelts are scheduled to sail next Saturday. They should arrive on June 18, when Mrs. Roosevelt will get a taste of American honors with her husband.

GIRL TREATED IN FIENDISH WAY

Handsome Young Woman of New York Lured Into Barn and Tortured.

BRUTES USE HATPINS TO INFLICT PUNISHMENT

Strip the Victim After Binding Her, and Inflict Hundreds of Wounds.

By Leased Wire to The Tribune.
NEW YORK, June 4.—Pauline Kraychka of 197 East Third street, Manhattan, 19 years of age, and of attractive appearance, was taken to the Norwegian hospital, Brooklyn, today after having been lured to a barn on 64th street near 110th avenue in Brooklyn, where she was mistreated with almost incredible brutality. Two young men lured the girl to the barn on the pretext of showing her the way to a trolley car she wanted to take. Forced into the barn, her clothing was torn off, she was bound and then subjected to torture until she became helpless.

The fiendish attackers, with the girl's hatpins, punctured her flesh from the soles of her feet to her head. They beat and bruised her and pounded her face with their fists and finally showed her what they said was the arm of the last victim, a woman who persisted in resisting them.
